To Whom It May Concern:

On December 11, 2010, the Russian Duo performed in the Arts in the Village Concert Series in Rehoboth, Massachusetts.

This was the first time that the Duo had appeared in the series, and our committee was very pleased with both the content of the program and the audience's response.

The very enjoyable evening featured commentary on the history of the balalaika, and Oleg Kruglyakov demonstrated his virtuosity with astounding skill. The informative and personable presentation by both Kruglyakov and concert pianist Terry Boyarsky drew on history and used humor to help edify and entertain the audience members.

Especially considering all of the holiday events taking place during December, our committee was very happy with the attendance, which was above average for our series. The concert promised something different, and it drew in people who were looking for just that.

The Russian Duo received standing ovations and sustained applause as a mark of the audience's appreciation.
